

Openings

The trade magazine from the BBSA

*External Shading | Social Media
Motorisation | Shaped & Angled Blinds*

Era Inn system is ready for the big challenges

Nice UK

www.niceforyou.com

By Charlotte O'Farrell

Automated interior blind systems are increasingly becoming a mainstream and affordable option for domestic and commercial spaces. Launched last year, our Era Inn is a state-of-the-art motorised blinds system.

Era Inn's introduction has created a significant impact in the motorised blind market. For example, among many innovations, its variable torque and speed motors ensure that all blinds can maintain perfect alignment, regardless of the tube size or fabric thickness. This innovation alone has been an industry game-changer.

Nice has made significant investment in Era Inn's development, making full use of our product development labs. The lab's dedicated acoustic chamber allowed us to test the vibrations and noise levels of the motors during operation.

This work minimised the operating noise and vibration from the motor and ensured that the Era Inn is suitable for quieter spaces such as private homes or libraries.

Similarly, extensive testing in the Nice climatic chamber verified the motors' ability to function correctly under conditions of low and high temperature, and its ability to withstand rapid temperature changes.

Electrical safety tests also ensured that even extended periods of use will not cause the motors to overheat. These comprehensive tests confirmed that the Era Inn system could withstand a great number of challenging conditions.

The system has been designed for ease of installation and maintenance and can interface directly with many Building Management Systems (BMS). Not only does this make the initial set-up easier to manage, it means that hard-to-reach windows (such as those in high places) require less maintenance work. This makes Era Inn a great choice for spaces with higher or less accessible windows.

With its ability to create perfect alignment, quiet operation and versatility, Era Inn is the perfect choice for domestic, commercial and public settings.